

Work with InsideUni

We partner with schools, MATs and local authorities to create local, personal support networks for university applicants.

Who we are

A student-powered not-for-profit enhancing social mobility by providing uni applicants with free, reliable, first-hand advice from current students.

We make the application process fairer by ensuring everyone, no matter their background, has access to the right support.

We are driven by a network of over 4,000 student volunteers and our free online content has been used 1 million times.

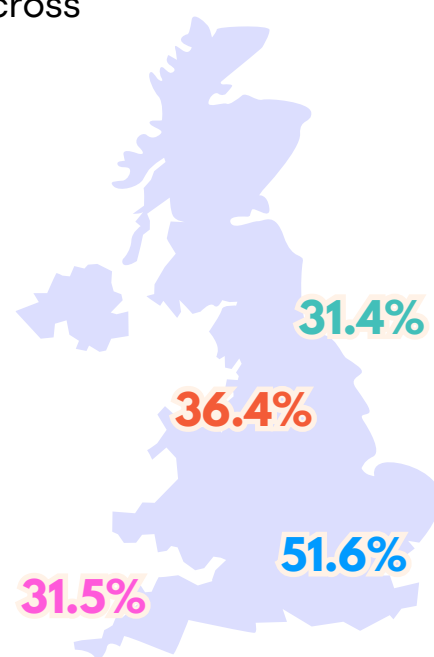

Why work with us?

University applications still aren't fair.

State-educated children are 33% less likely to attend top universities than the privately educated. Progression to university differs across the UK, meaning regional inequalities linger across generations.

Accessing word-of-mouth advice can be key to a successful uni application, but it's difficult to find.

Word-of-mouth advice is trusted by applicants, and can be the key factor in creating successful applicants. However, without a way of coordinating alumni, word-of-mouth advice can be difficult to find. This means applicants often miss out on this valuable resource, and resort to less reliable online chatrooms for relatable advice.
